New Food Hygiene Training Resource

Make Elementary Food Hygiene training more memorable and effective for learners with The Food Hygiene Game, a fun and informative board game and REHIS approved training resource!

This team board game encourages discussion, sharing knowledge and learning from each other. Questions in the game are easy to understand and use simple everyday language.

"Through my background in training, I realised there was a need to improve training methods for basic food hygiene skills. After time away from formal education, trainees often felt inhibited learning in a 'classroom' setting and then found it difficult to apply knowledge in the workplace. I have worked with Focus Games to create an activity which I believe will improve the learning experience for all people in the food industry."

Brenda Black, Dietitian and Food Hygiene trainer, eQuality Nutrition.

Did you know?

Research has shown that educational games can improve learners' knowledge retention, and enhance interest in learning about a topic!

During trials in North Ayrshire, 70% of people who played The Food Hygiene Game said that it was 'a very effective way to learn'.

Topics covered:

- Introduction to Food Hygiene
- Food hazards
- Personal hygiene
- Working environment
- Food pests
- Cleaning practices
- Introduction to HACCP
- Temperature controls

Suitable for:

With around 43,000 cases of foodborne illness in Scotland each year, improving food hygiene practices is important for everyone. This game could be used in:

- Food Hygiene courses and refresher training
- Hospitality or catering industry training
- Schools: Home Economics/food education classes
- Higher education in food science, health or catering
- Food industry events and training
- Corporate training in all businesses

"The Royal Environmental Health Institute of Scotland (REHIS) is delighted that Focus Games has launched the Food Hygiene board game. This is an excellent resource to facilitate learning in an interactive and fun approach. The game includes many key facts about Food Hygiene which the learners will find relevant when undertaking a Food Hygiene course."

Jackie McCabe, Director of Training, REHIS.
